

A b s t r a c t

The invention relates to an apparatus and a method for executing a money deposit transaction.

During a money deposit transaction the state of the bank notes to be deposited is ascertained, bank notes being in a good state are made available to the depositor after the completion of the money deposit transaction, while bank notes being in an unsatisfactory state are withheld.